

O DEGAARD

UNDERGRADUATE LIBRARY

Writing and Research Center

Welcome to a new kind of writing center!

Isn't the best location for a writing center a place where one does a lot of writing? And what could be better than having both tutors and librarians on call to help you through all phases of the writing process? Welcome to the Odegaard Writing & Research Center! We help students through all stages of the writing process on any piece of writing.

Bring in a draft at any stage, or just the assignment if you're having trouble getting started. Tutors help with...

- Understanding your assignment – what's expected of you?
- Researching – where can you find appropriate academic resources for your paper?
- Brainstorming – what directions might your writing take?
- Outlining – how might you shape or organize your ideas?
- Drafting – how can you connect your thoughts in a coherent flow?
- Revising – how can you re-see and reconsider your large and small scale choices?

We're open to all members of the UW community and feature attractive afternoon and evening hours. Sign-up for an appointment online via our website:

<http://www.depts.washington.edu/owrc>

WHERE:

Odegaard Library, Room 326

WHEN:

Sunday through Thursday,
1:30-4:30 | 6:00-9:00pm

WRITE@ODEGAARD